New Jersey statewide 2-1-1

WHAT IS 2-1-1? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2-1-1 an easy to remember three digit telephone number that connects people with professionals trained to listen and find help for people with non-emergency individual and family problems. • 2-1-1 programs operate around the clock under national standards using current information. • 2-1-1 can replace unnecessary hotlines and 1-800 numbers, connect people with specialized service networks, and reduce non-emergency calls to 9-1-1.
WHO WILL CALL 2-1-1? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The laid-off worker struggling to feed a family. • A teenager seeking help with an alcohol or substance abuse problem. • The adult child of an elderly person trying to find community services to keep a parent at home. • People wanting to volunteer or make a donation to a worthy cause. • A clergyman, social worker, or government official trying help someone 2-1-1 is for everyone.
WHERE DOES 2-1-1 EXIST? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2-1-1 is in operation in 22 states serving 62 million Americans today. • The oldest 2-1-1 programs are in Atlanta, Georgia and in Connecticut. These programs received national recognition for their role in connecting people with help in the aftermath of the September 11th tragedies. • 2-1-1 is sweeping the country with programs planned in every state.
WHY 2-1-1 IS A GREAT IDEA...	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 2-1-1 provides one easy access point to all human services. • 2-1-1 encourages people to take care of themselves: When people get the right help at the right time, problems are reduced and less costly for everyone.

- 2-1-1 can be used as a single point of non-emergency contact and public information during a disaster or homeland emergency.
- 2-1-1 will make the health and human service system more efficient and over time will reduce costs for individuals, employers, and government.

50 Ways 2-1-1 Works

UWP 2-1-1 Home Page

50 Ways 2-1-1 Works

- 1. Laid-Off Workers: 2-1-1 provides one memorable number that works for any kind of health or human service need. In a Brookings Institution Study, researchers reviewed the experience of laid-off hotel workers after the September 11th attacks and found that even when social service agencies were doing a good job making housing, food, and other assistance available, displaced workers couldn't figure out how to get help. Pat Atkins, a researcher from George Washington University noted that 2-1-1 "... enables people to get assistance before they decide to give up."
- 2. Disease Epidemic: 2-1-1 helps people during epidemics as it did for the residents of Toronto, Canada during the SARS outbreak – People needed to know, for example, how to get groceries while quarantined. 2-1-1 will be used to provide information on West Nile virus, as well as such threats as anthrax and smallpox attacks.
- 3. Flu Shots: 2-1-1 provides easy access to information about how to get flu shots and how to pay for them if necessary. This year, complete flu shot information is available in Palm Beach County, Florida by calling 2-1-1.
- 4. Evacuation Routes: 2-1-1 can provide information about emergency shelters and evacuation routes during natural and man-made disasters.
- 5. CHIP, Etc: 2-1-1 provides basic information and connection to state - provided income and insurance benefits such as the Children's Health Insurance Program. In Florida, United Way 2-1-1 of Jacksonville has a partnership with the State Agency for Health Care Administration to pilot a strategy that uses 2-1-1 as the entry point for MediKids, Kidcare and other state benefits.
- 6. Crime Victims: 2-1-1 could provide information to crime victims on services and benefits available to them.
- 7. Travelers' Aid: 2-1-1 can help people who are stranded. In Atlanta, thousands of people were stranded at Hartsfield International Airport for several days after September 11th. According to Dan Williams, former national 2-1-1 coordinator, "Not only did people call looking for rooms, we had people calling 2-1-1 offering rooms in their homes for people who were stranded.” In all, hundreds of people received temporary housing until the crisis passed.

8. ESL Help: 2-1-1 helps non-English speaking people get comprehensive health and human service information. It was important in the SARS outbreak in Toronto, for example, to be able to serve the Mandarin Chinese speaking population. In addition to the large Spanish speaking population in this country, many pockets of other non-English speaking people exist in nearly every community.
9. Reliable, Comprehensive Human Services Database: 2-1-1 provides a comprehensive, continuously updated human service web-based database for everyone, including social workers, doctors, and others trying to help people. In Connecticut, at least 15% of calls to 2-1-1 are from helping professionals and legislators looking for information to help someone. The database is available on disk and through the 2-1-1 website.
10. Community Response to Economic Emergencies: 2-1-1 helps communities hit by industry shutdown --- 2-1-1 was the critical community connection for residents of Atlanta who were unemployed in the sudden decline of the airline industry in the aftermath of September 11th. 2-1-1 provided the focal point for community leaders to respond quickly.
11. No stigma, confidential: 2-1-1 provides a neutral, confidential resource for help in any situation. People will call 2-1-1, because it is neutral and anonymous and does not require people to call themselves homeless, abused, elderly, mentally ill or other “labels”.
12. Alternative solutions and plans: 2-1-1 helps people with multi-faceted problems – such as a sudden serious illness. Many people need help but find it hard to formulate a plan. They just know what their predicament is.
13. Targeting Assistance: 2-1-1 provides a knowledge base to steer funding to where it can help the most ---In Battle Creek Michigan, data collected between 11/02 and 1/03, showed that 131 of 160 unmet needs were in the area of utility assistance. As a result, the United Way released an additional $10,000 to help local residents pay heating bills. Upon hearing this, Semco Energy matched the $10,000 donation.
14. Rural Assistance: 2-1-1 will give rural Pennsylvanians better access to health and human service information. There are 14 of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania that currently do not have access to a comprehensive information and referral service.
15. Parent Support and Education: 2-1-1 gives parents immediate access to parenting information. In Hawaii, which has statewide 2-1-1 service, the Hawaii Children’s Trust Fund has provided a grant that will help fathers in Hawaii access resources through Aloha United Way 2-1-1.

- 16. 9-1-1 Relief: 2-1-1 provides an outlet for the non-emergency calls that can flood 9-1-1 centers during a disaster. The Switchboard of Miami has a standing agreement with their 9-1-1 center that when a hurricane is imminent, Switchboard staff relocate to the 9-1-1 center to handle all the non-emergency requests for information that come in. Switchboard is not yet a 2-1-1 service but its proven usefulness to the 9-1-1 service center will only increase when it makes that change.
- 17. Employee Retention: 2-1-1 helps employers retain employees and reduce absenteeism. In a May 8, 2003 article in Business Direct Weekly, Ted J. Baird, an employment law specialist in Michigan, wrote that, "2-1-1 has the potential to save time, decrease stress, increase employment opportunities, increase labor pools, and reduce pressure on employers to increase benefits We need to answer this call."
- 18. Inventory of Beds for the Homeless: 2-1-1 can provide an up-to-date, broad geographic inventory of shelter beds available to the homeless. At Connecticut's 2-1-1 Info line, a statewide count is maintained daily, so that every homeless person can be accommodated, especially during dangerously cold weather.
- 19. Reaching At-Risk Populations in an Emergency: According to Burt Wallrich, long time Coordinator for Information and Referral in Los Angeles, 2-1-1 systems can reach the majority of at-risk people through a broad network of small agencies serving the homeless and others who are disconnected by language, recent immigration, transience, distrust of government or mental illness. "The risks of not reaching these people [in a major disaster] include unnecessary loss of life and injury if services don't reach them, disease spreading from improvised camps to the rest of the community, civil disorder if people feel neglected and cut off from help, and political pressure and litigation brought to bear by advocates for these groups."
- 20. Suicide Prevention: Connecticut's 2-1-1 Infoline receives several calls every night from people who are contemplating suicide. The American Association for Suicidology evaluates Connecticut's crisis workers and certifies them for the clinical practice of this specialized type of crisis management.
- 21. Assistance to Local Governments: Many local governments do not have the extra tax dollars to establish a 3-1-1 service to provide information about municipal government services. As an alternative, 2-1-1 can provide an up-to-date official directory of detailed contact information so that residents know who to call for non-emergency information such as tax information, to report a dangerous road condition, or to ask a question about codes and zoning.
